FOREWORD

Manuscripts constitute an important aspect of our national heritage, and it is the duty of all institutions associated with their collection and preservation to see that they are well maintained and catalogued. It is a tribute to the wisdom and foresight of Maharaja Ranbir Singhji, the founder of the Dharmarth Trust, that along with the founding of the Shri Raghunath Temple over a century ago he also set up a Sanskrit Mahavidyalaya and a library of manuscripts.

The first catalogue of these manuscripts was prepared in 1894 by the eminent Indologist Sir Auriel Stein, but this had not before been brought up to date. Some years ago, therefore, I considered that a fresh Descriptive Catalogue of the manuscripts lying in the library, which I had earlier converted into the Shri Ranbir Sanskrit Research Institute, should be prepared by a modern scholar. Despite some delay, I am glad that the first volume of the new catalogue is now being released for the benefit of the public in general and Indologists in particular. I hope that the remaining volumes will also be forthcoming shortly, so that the entire collection is properly catalogued.

I am happy that we were able to secure a grant from the Government of India, Ministry of Education, for the preparation of this catalogue, and also that the services of a distinguished scholar from the Deccan College Research Institute, Poona, Dr. M. M. Patkar, were available to undertake this task. I might mention that the manuscripts in this library contain works not only in Sanskrit but also in Hindi, Urdu, Persian, Arabic, Ladakhi, Dogri, Telegu and the Sharada script, thus well reflecting the unique diversity of our composite cultural heritage.

PREFACE

The present volume of the Descriptive Catalogue of Manuscripts deposited in Shri Raghunatha Temple Library (now Shri Ranbir Sanskrit Research Institute, Jammu) forms the first of the three volumes to be published in due course.

It was in 1958 that I was invited to reorganise the Raghunath Temple Manuscripts Library and prepare a Descriptive Catalogue thereof. Accordingly I visited Jammu and prepared the Descriptive Catalogue of all the manuscripts lying in the Manuscripts Library. However, in 1962 the then Ministry of Scientific Research and Cultural Affairs of the Union Government of India formulated a scheme for the preparation and compilation of catalogues of manuscripts deposited in several libraries and Institutes in India. The publication of the present catalogue was undertaken by the authorities of the Dharmarth Trust, Jammu and Kashmir, under the said plan and accordingly the Catalogue is prepared on the lines laid down by Government.

The present volume of the catalogue under reference deals with the following eight sections viz., (1) Veda, (2) Sūtrapaddhati, (3) Upaniṣad, (4) Vedāṅga, (5) Vyākaraṇa, (6) Kośa, (7) Chandas and (8) Saṁgīta.

The well-known collection of manuscripts in Shri Raghunath Temple at Jammu was first brought to the notice of Scholars and the world of learning by the eminent Indologist Sir Auriel Stein who brought out a catalogue of these manuscripts as far back as 1894.

It is needless for me to say that the manuscripts collection comprising of more than six thousand manuscripts is a very important collection and contains many valuable copies of works known only through names or citations. A detailed account of such manuscripts will be given in a general introduction to be published in the last volume of the catalogue.

It is my pleasant duty to offer my grateful thanks to His Highness Dr. Karan Singhji, Maharaja of Jammu and Kashmir and Minister of Tourism and Civil Aviation, Government of India, New Delhi, for giving me an opportunity to study the manuscripts in Shri Ranbir Research Institute and to prepare a catalogue thereof. I am also indebted to the staff of the Shri Ranbir Research Institute who offered me full cooperation in the compilation of the present catalogue. The Manager of the Veda-Vidya Mudranalaya of Poona also deserves my thanks for the execution of the complicated and irksome task of printing the catalogue which requires different typography and painstaking attention. I hope to present to the general public and to the scholars interested in indology the remaining two parts of catalogue before the close of the present year.

POONA,
1st January 1970
